Residential Aliyah Program for Young Adult Olim to Israel

The Beit Brodetsky program provides new immigrants to Israel with comprehensive services for a “soft landing,” Hebrew skills, employment counseling, trips around Israel and chances to make friends and build a social network. It is located in Tel Aviv, the center of Israel’s economy, communications, commerce and visual and performing arts. The neighborhood around Beit Brodetsky, Ramat Aviv, is a modern and prestigious area that is home to Tel Aviv University, other colleges, museums, parks, restaurants and nightlife.

The program at Beit Brodetsky lasts five months and is geared toward young adults who wish to become students or professionals in Israel. The goals of the program are to give you a strong base in the Hebrew language and provide the guidance and support you need for successful integration into Israeli society.

Residential Aliyah Program for Young Adult Olim to Israel

The program includes:

- ✓ Morning Hebrew classes: five hours per day, five days a week
- ✓ Workshops and lectures on preparing for life in Israel
- ✓ Employment consulting
- ✓ Individual guidance and counseling
- ✓ Guided tours of historical, religious and cultural sites around the country
- ✓ Jewish and Israeli holiday celebrations and other cultural events

Eligibility

Beit Brodetsky is open to new immigrants aged 18-35 who hold high school diplomas. Admission is open to singles and to married couples without children.

Accommodations

Participants in the dormitories live in two-room apartments, with two residents assigned to each room. Every apartment is equipped with basic furniture and equipment:

- ✓ Kitchen: refrigerator, microwave, kettle and hotplate
- ✓ Each bedroom: two single beds, one closet, two desks, two chairs, air conditioner and TV.
- ✓ Bathroom with standing shower

Participants are required to provide their own linens (bedding and towels), a warm blanket, pillow and kitchenware (pots and pans, dishes, etc).

Participants are responsible for their own meals.

There is an option to participate as an “external student,” that is, study in the Hebrew ulpan and join all the activities, without living in the Beit Brodetsky dormitories.

Cost

The cost for the entire five-month Beit Brodetsky program for young adult olim, including accommodations, is 7,450 NIS, plus a deposit of 500 NIS.

The cost covers all program activities, accommodations and the use of utilities (water, electricity, wi-fi and cable TV). It is payable in three payments, which will be transferred from your bank account during the program.

The 500 NIS deposit is returned at the conclusion of the program to participants who have fulfilled all their obligations.

The cost for olim joining as “external students” is 750 NIS for the entire five months.

Start Dates

The program runs twice each year, once starting after the autumn Jewish holidays (October-November, and once after Passover (April-May).
